ACCIDENTS TO EMPLOYEES IN ILLINOIS FROM JANUARY 1 TO DECEMBER 31, 1909.

The first table is a summary of all accidents that occurred during the year 1909, both fatal and non-fatal. Also, the number reported in our two former reports together with the grand totals. During the year 1909 there were 855 fatal accidents and 2,359 non-fatal accidents reported to this office. The increase in fatal accidents is due to the Cherry mine disaster in which 256 lives of employés were lost. There were less non-fatal accidents during the year 1909 than there were during the year 1908. During the two and a half years that these reports have been filed with us there have been 1,677 employés killed and 5,947 injured while in the performance of their duties. A large per cent of these have occurred in the coal mining industry and in railroading. This year 52.09 per cent of all fatal accidents and 33.62 per cent of the non-fatal accidents are charged to the coal mining industry. This is an increase of the total over last year of 16.09 per cent for the fatal, but a decrease of 6.38 per cent for the non-fatal accidents. There were 72,733 persons employed in coal mining and one person was killed for each 161 employed; one out of each ninety persons employed were injured to the extent of being out of employment thirty or more days. The large number of accidents occurring in coal mines proves the necessity of such legislation as will reduce the liability of accidents in this occupation.

A reduction is shown in the number of fatal accidents occurring in steam railroading, but an increase in those of the non-fatal. There was one fatal accident for each 489 employed, and one non-fatal accident entailing a loss of thirty days or more time for every 129 persons employed.

Out of probably 400,000 persons employed in manufacturing in this State there were but sixty-three persons reported killed and 496 injured. This is a small per cent of accidents for those employed. It represents one person killed for each 6,349 employed, and one person injured for each 806 employed.

*Eighty-nine were injured in 1908. Eighty-five in coal mining, 2 in manufacturing and 2 in steam railways.

†Thirty of the number killed, occurred in 1907. One in beef packing, 25 in coal mining and 4 in the miscellaneous class.

‡Of the injured, 307 occurred in 1907; 255 in coal mining, 13 in contracting, 27 in manufacturing and 12 in the miscellaneous class.

MONTHS IN WHICH ALL ACCIDENTS OCCURRED.

Table 2 presents in two separate sections the fatal and non-fatal accidents occurring during each month of the year. The months of January and November show more fatal accidents than all the other months combined, or 51 per cent of all accidents. The most of those of January occurred in coal mining and contracting, this being due to a very extensive accident in each of these industries. A gas explosion occurred in the Zeigler coal mine in which twenty-six were instantly killed, and a fire occurred in the crib out in Lake Michigan where fifty-three men in the employ of the George W. Jackson Company, contractors, lost their lives.

The large number of fatalities occurring in the month of November is due to the fire in the Cherry mine.

The non-fatal accidents for the year are more evenly distributed through the months; they extend from 165 in August, the lowest, to 238 in November, the highest. It will be seen by the foot note that eighty-nine of the accidents contained in the table occurred in 1908, but the employers failed to send them to us until it was too late to get them in the 1908 report. This is a much better showing than last year, however, when thirty fatal and 305 non-fatal reports were delinquent. We are gratified that no fatal delinquents appear in this report and that the non-fatal have been so materially reduced.

CONJUGAL RELATIONS, FATAL AND NON-FATAL ACCIDENTS.

Table 3 shows the conjugal relationship of the employés killed and also of those injured. Of those meeting with fatal accidents 504 were married, 295 were single, 56 not reporting. The married had 1,523 persons dependent upon them and the single ones fifty-nine persons.

Of the total number of 2,359 non-fatal injuries, 1,386 were married and 973 were single. There were 3,909 persons dependent upon the married men and 96 upon the single men.

CLASSIFIED AGE PERIODS AND CONJUGAL RELATIONSHIP.

Table 4 presents the classification of the ages of those meeting with fatal accidents. The largest number is shown to be between the ages of 25 and 30 years of age. The smallest number those over 60 years of age. Five per cent were under 20, 15 per cent were 20 but under 25, 22 per cent were 25 but under 30, 16 per cent were 30 but under 35, 15 per cent were 35 but under 40, 8 per cent were 40 but under 45, 6 per cent were 45 but under 50; also, 6 per cent were 50 but under 55. Those 55 but under 60 represent 3 per cent, while those over 60 years of age represent but 2½ per cent of the total. The average age of all was 34 years.

NATIVITY OF THE KILLED.

Table 5 shows the nationality of those killed in each of the various industries into which our table is divided. There are twenty-five different nationalities represented. The largest number were Americans, they being 39 per cent of the total. The Italians are second with 12½ per cent. It will be seen that a large per cent of those killed in the coal mining industry were foreigners.

KILLED AND INJURED, LOCATION AND NAME OF EMPLOYER.

Table 7 gives the names and the location of the employers reporting accidents to this bureau during the year 1909, either fatal or nonfatal, together with the number reported by each.

They are arranged into the ten different industries, with a miscellaneous class, the same as other classified tables in this report. There are 328 different employers represented, some reporting both fatal and nonfatal accidents.

In the coal mining industry the largest number of fatal accidents is shown by the St. Paul Coal Company in its mines located at Granville and Cherry, having 258 killed and twenty-one injured during the year. The Zeigler Coal Company is second, with twenty-six killed and one injured.

Owing to the serious accident befalling the employés of the George W. Jackson Company, when fifty-three men lost their lives, the number of fatal accidents in contracting were increased from seven last year to sixty-nine this year. The non-fatal injuries, though, decreased from forty-one last year to eleven this year.

In manufacturing, the Illinois Steel Company has the highest number, with twenty killed and eighty-two persons injured. The International Harvester Company is second, with five killed and eighty-one injured. As there is a great variance in the number of persons employed by manufacturers, and railroads, particularly, those employers that have had a larger number of accidents probably employ many persons, and the per cent of accidents may be less to the number employed than some companies that show few accidents.

The Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company reports fifty-six killed, the largest number killed in the railroading business, and it reports 108 non-fatal accidents.

The Illinois Central had forty-one employés killed and 177 injured. The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, thirty killed and 198 injured. These lines have the greatest number of employés. The report of the Railroad and Warehouse Commission for 1908 gives the number of employés of the Chicago & Northwestern 13,967 persons; of the Illinois Central, 15,211; of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, 15,007.

We have placed in the miscellaneous class those firms that could not properly be put into either of the ten classifications. The eight fatal and the thirty-four non-fatal accidents are quite evenly distributed among them.

NON-FATAL ACCIDENTS.

The non-fatal accidents here reported were of a more or less serious nature, as they each entailed a loss of thirty or more days time, which, in many cases, meant much to the sufferer and his family or those dependent upon him. These accidents embrace not only broken bones, burns and severe bruises, which caused distress and suffering, but in many cases crippled the persons for life. In those cases the exact extent of the injury cannot be obtained.

Table 1 is similar to table 8 for fatal accidents and gives the number of injuries at each residence place in each of the ten industries into which the table is arranged. The second column gives the number of persons injured in each occupation reported to us in the various industries.

In the third column is enumerated the causes of the accidents in each industry and the number of accidents attributed to each cause. The last column gives the names of the employers and the number of accidents they have reported.

In the statements each division is independent of the other.

CHARACTERIZATION OF INJURY.

Table 4 is drawn from table 2 and shows the specific part of the body injured and divides the injuries into four characters, viz.: Amputated, broken, burned, or variously injured. The most common injury was either broken arms or legs. There were 131 employés who had either an arm or arms broken and 230 who had broken legs. Sixteen had arms amputated, twenty-six had legs amputated; sixty-seven had fingers amputated and twenty-seven had toes amputated. Other interesting data may be gathered from the table.

AGES AND CONJUGAL RELATIONS.

Table 5 classifies the ages of the injured into ten different classes of five years each, except the first and the last, and shows this classification for each industry. Those under 20 years of age are 5 per cent of the total; those 20 but under 25 represent 18 per cent; 25 but under 30, 19 per cent; 30 but under 35, 16 per cent; 35 but under 40, 13 per cent; 40 but under 45, 10½ per cent; 45 but under 50, 8 per cent; 50 but under 55, 5 per cent; 55 but under 60, 3 per cent; 60 and over, 2½ per cent. The average age of all is the same as that for nonfatal accidents, 34 years. Thirteen eighty-six hundredths or 58.75 per cent were married and 913 or 41.25 per cent were single.
